

Burglars Visit Club and Tavern, Help Selves to Liquor

Alcoholic beverages made up most of the loot of burglars operating in Cleveland over the weekend, police reports indicated last night.

William Green, steward of the American-Lithuanian Citizens Club, Avenue N. E., reported the club had been broken open on the Saturday night close after and $108 in cash, four cases of whisky, a case of rum, three boxes of cigars and four cartons of cigarettes stolen.

Leo Crowe, 10213 Clifton Road,

N. W., operator of Crowe's Nest, a tavern at 3801 Detroit Avenue N. W., reported his place of business had been looted of 48 bottles of whisky, 12 bottles of wine and a roll of pennies.

These thefts followed the stealing of 46 cases of whisky from the state liquor store at 614 Prospect Avenue S. E. on Friday night.

Bernard Spitz, 3277 E. 146th Street, who operates a filling station at 12101 Union Avenue S. E., reported his station had been broken into and $50 in cash taken.

Angelo Damante, 11206 Clarebird Avenue S. E., proprietor of a barber shop at 13417 Kinsman Road S. E., said some one threw a brick through the shop's front door window and got away with $32.

Samuel Chinar, 2555 E. 73d Street, reported burglars entered his room and stole a bank containing $52, a metal box holding $35, a box of silverware and his wrist watch.

Police turned over to the Detention Home two boys of 12 and 14 caught attempting to break into the office of the Community Coal Co. at 2520 E. 93d Street.

Sargeant in 37th Wins Lieutenancy

A direct appointment to the rank of second lieutenant in the chemical warfare service of Ohio's 37th Division on Bougainville has been won by Master Sgt. Henry H. Brandt, husband of Mrs. Henry Brandt, 1371 Brookley Avenue, Lakewood, according to word received last night from the south Pacific.

Only in rare instances are direct appointments given and those usually because of exemplary action on the battlefield, the announcement said. Lieut. Brandt is credited with a fine record in New Georgia and on Bougainville.

The lieutenant, who also served on Guadalcanal and the Fiji Islands, was recently awarded the Good Conduct Medal.

A former member of the Ohio National Guard, Lieut. Brandt was inducted for active service in October, 1940, and sent overseas last May. He was a chemist at the Glidden Co.

OBJECTS TO OWN DEFERMENT

ALBANY, N. Y., April 9—(AP)—Mayor Erastus Corning II of Albany, asked permission of his draft board tonight to leave for army service Thursday as scheduled, despite a selective service order staying induction of men over 25.

There was no indication whether the board would grant the request of the 34-year-old executive, who is father of two children.

ONE DRAFT FACT: YOUNG MEN NOW

Deferments Under 26 Still in Indecisive Stage

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP)—With most of the older men temporarily sidetracked, the nation's 6,400 draft boards will hustle this week to get men under 26 years old into combat training to replace coming battle casualties.

The War Department, in announcing that the army has reached its planned strength of 7,700,000, said last week this "peak" will be exceeded in April in order to begin at once the training of young men so they will be ready when needed to replace men falling in battle. Basic training takes three months.

Then came Saturday's order from Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey to postpone all draft procedure for men 26 and older who are in jobs making a contribution to the war.

Hershey said the army and navy told him they need young men now, even if it means failure to meet quotas of older registrants.

Miners on Deferment List

With this new and urgent emphasis on haste in April, it was obvious that if any substantial number of key men under 26 in vital industries were going to be deferred, selective service must get advice from other government manpower agencies and get it quickly.

Man Power Chairman Paul V. McNutt, who also heads the committee of man-power claimants, an inter-agency group, was reported today to be ready to hand Gen. Hershey a list of 13 activities in which some deferments are recommended for younger men.

McNutt's list was understood to include coal mining and pre-medical and pre-dental students, activities which the claimant committee had refused to support. But this does not mean a large number of coal miners will be kept out of the draft. McNutt was reported insisting only on a few miners in certain highly-productive mines.

Transportation Included

Transportation was on the list but the Office of Defense Transportation acknowledged that only a "small number" of transportation men under 26, such as train dispatchers, will be recommended for deferment.

The Hershey order concerning men 26 and older has confused many men scheduled to report for induction or physical examinations, and some boards themselves were unclear on their exact procedure. These general rules were laid down by a draft headquarters officer today.

IF AN INDIVIDUAL is in doubt about what to do, he should contact his local board for instructions.

IF A LOCAL BOARD is in doubt, it should contact the state director.

Some states, with comparatively few men under 26 still eligible, planned to postpone processing of older men only a few days. Others said it might take two months to get all younger men through the draft machinery.

Some state directors ordered a stay of induction for all men 26 and older, until local boards can determine which men are making a contribution to the war effort.
