Condemn Laos Reds, Britain Asks Russia

© New York Times Service LONDON — Britain has suggested to the Soviet Union that the two countries jointly condemn the continuing attacks by Pathet Lao and Viet Minh forces in Laos, and urge both to withdraw, the foreign office disclosed yesterday.

The message, which diplomatic sources confidently expected to come to absolutely nothing, was handed to the Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow Friday.

The British and Soviet foreign ministers are co-chairmen of the 1962 Geneva agreements that were to guarantee Laotian neutrality and independence.

BUT THE CLEARER protagonists are the United States and Communist China. The contents of the message disclosed that if they accomplish anything, they will balance the statement issued last Tuesday by Communist China—echoed by the Soviet Union on the same day — against reconnaissance flights by U.S. aircraft over Laos.

In the message Britain proposed, she and the Soviet Union would "condemn these attacks which are causing untold suffering to thousands of innocent citizens of Laos and call upon the Pathet Lao and their foreign supporters to put an end to these acts of aggression at once."

BRITAIN ALSO proposed the Pathet Lao, the military arm of the pro-communist Neo Lao Hak Xat political faction in Laos, withdraw to the positions they held before they began their attack against neutralist forces on the Plaine des Jarres in central Laos on May 16.
